

JOB DESCRIPTION

POSITION: Web & Mobile Developer

Responsibilities of the position may include, but are not limited to:

- Responsible for start-to-finish development of new web and mobile applications
- Communicate on a daily basis with other members of our technical team, management, and sales staff

Position Requirements:

- Strong organizational skills and attention to detail
- Willingness to work nights or weekends as needed to meet project deadlines
- On-call availability during non-business hours
- Experience with PHP, jQuery, MySQL and Linux
- Experience with Andriod and iOS mobile platforms
- Experience developing cross-browser front ends including CSS, XHTML, AJAX, JavaScript
- Demonstrated outside-the-box thinking ability, coupled with strong logical reasoning and coding ability
- Ability to research solutions to problems and make use of open source technology
- Understanding of latest trends in web development and design, ability to design user interface
- Knowledge of, or passion for, meteorology a strong plus
- Knowledge of GIS application development a strong plus
- Excellent interpersonal and communication skills
- Strong work ethic and a positive, "can-do" attitude

Experience:

Preferred Bachelor's degree in Computer Science (or related) and 3+ years experience

Compensation commensurate with education, experience, and level of expertise

To Apply:

Please send a resume/CV and cover letter to info@weatherbell.com

About WeatherBell Analytics:

WeatherBell Analytics, LLC is a New York based meteorological consulting firm that provides customized forecasts, data services, and weather intelligence tools to entities exposed to weather. We provide weather forecasting and data services to commercial customers across a variety of industries, including energy, agriculture, marine, retail, snow and ice, and insurance. Our branded products are industry-specific and help businesses to mitigate relevant weather risk and improve operational efficiency.